

NIMMO BAY

2022 COVID-19

To our guests, friends and family,

Keeping our guests, team and communities safe is always our number one priority at Nimmo Bay. We pride ourselves on exceeding expectations and we continue to diligently follow the Health Authority guidelines to ensure Nimmo Bay is a healthy and safe environment for all.

Below you'll find information on our covid protocols and what you can expect pre, during and after your time with us.

Before arrival

If you are traveling to Canada from another country, please review the current entry-requirements here.

Pre-Testing for Nimmo Bay Team: As Nimmo Bay operates in the remote wilderness, Nimmo and the communities around us are very sensitive. Nimmo Bay requires employees to provide a negative antigen test within 24 hours of arriving on site for their shift.

Pre-Testing for Guests: We encourage guests who have any symptoms at all to take an at home rapid test prior to their trip to Nimmo Bay to ensure everyone is Covid free and able to travel. This will not only keep you safe, but also help keep Nimmo Bay and the remote communities we work with safe. Please note this is not mandatory nor will we be asking for your results.

During your stay

Masks: At this time masks are not mandatory in public or shared spaces, however we respect the various comfort levels of all guests. If you prefer for our team to wear face coverings while near you, please let us know so that we can act accordingly and keep you comfortable.

Adventures and Activities: To help maintain the comfort and health of all our guests, all of our adventures are offered privately to each group.

Ongoing Sanitization: We continue to sanitize, maintain extra care of high touch and high traffic areas and employ increased measures to ensure adequate ventilation in any enclosed spaces.

Covid-19 Symptoms while at Nimmo Bay

If you become symptomatic of Covid-19 while at Nimmo Bay, we ask that you inform our team, don a mask and take care to minimize any contact. We will offer you a rapid antigen test in your cabin which will be administered with the assistance of our first aider. Testing is not mandatory.

If your test is positive for Covid-19 we will arrange transportation and cover costs of travel to Port McNeill or Port Hardy on the northern end of Vancouver Island where hotels and medical services are available. We will assist with logistics around accessing medical care, arranging for accomodation and food for the mandated isolation period. Nimmo Bay will not be responsible for costs associated with the time spent outside of Nimmo Bay.

After Departure from Nimmo Bay

If traveling internationally after your stay at Nimmo Bay, please check the requirements for entry into the next destination. Some countries still require a negative Covid test for re-entry. If Covid testing is required, There is certified testing available at the Vancouver International Airport and we recommend booking your test and ensuring enough time between connections.
